June 1982

Dear John:

Thanks again for participating in our round-table discussion. I have been told by many people -- particularly those involved in the National Academy effort -- that ours was the best meeting of its kind. If so, the credit goes to yourself, Jan Herring, and the other fine panelists who joined us.

I hope you feel the effort was worthwhile -- it seems that industry is increasingly accepting your conclusion about the dangers of espionage. If we can be of further help in stimulating discussion and public understanding of these matters, please let me know.

Also, I would be pleased to send you additional copies of the transcript if you need them. Just have one of your assistants call me.

Hope to meet you again sometime.

Best regards,

Ellis
